AN OPEN LETTER TO AUTO DRIVERS

363 Parents Circle
Typical Town, U. S. A.
August 31, 1961

Dear Driver:

Today my 7 year old son started another round of schooling.
At 8:00 o'clock this morning he swaggered out the front door with the world in his pocket. His wolf was half cap was set at a cocky angle. His ball glove was on one hand and one lone book was juggling under his arm.
What do you think was on his mind? "See you, Mom," he called, "hope I get to bat before the bell rings." Then he disappeared around the corner. My words of caution,
"watch out for cars", barely caught up with him.

For seven years his father and I have guarded his safety as best we could. When he started crawling, I put safety devices on the electric outlets. When he walked, up went scissors, pointed objects and all items poisonous if taken internally. To insure safe summer play for him in his early years we built a pool but adequate fence around the back yard.

We taught him safety as best we could . . . as well as you can teach a child. We have told him never to cross a street except on an intersection and then to wait until the light was right and the first car had stopped. But you know how children are. They can be watching when they start across but be flying a jet plane over the Pacific by the time they reach the middle. They can forget streets ever exist and dart from behind a parked automobile for no reason at all.

When my son walks out our front door now, his safety is in your hands . . . in YOUR hands. You wouldn't hurt him, would you? Please drive carefully. You can never guess what a child will do.

Please don't run over my little boy.

Sincerely,
A Loving Mother

changes in a pending measure concerned with the state's railroad outlook law.

McClarkin's measures would require a railroad, its agents, servants and employees "to keep a constant lookout for all persons, including licensees and trespassers, and properly upon the track."

Gov. Nathan Gordon said the measure is a compromise with the earlier bill to allow railroads to plead contributory negligence in accident lawsuits but at the same time require the railroads to watch out for pedestrians on the tracks.

Gordon said the railroads were studying the matter to see if they could agree.

The House Public Expenditures Committee gave a "do pass" recommendation Wednesday to a bill to prohibit state officials from profiting from money spent at the current special session.

The conflict of interest measure, authored by Ouachita Rep. David H. Pryor, would make it unlawful for any company with an officer who was a legislator, state official, state employee or state board appointee to contract with any state agency for any of the money appropriated during the current session.

But lawmakers saw little chance the measure would be passed.

Gov. Faubus signed into law Wednesday four bills passed by the special session. The measures appropriate $15,650 for Senate expenses, $57,281 for House costs, change salaries of collectors in 16 counties to correct errors made in salary authorizations by the regular 1961 legislature and rule that divisions of Pulaski Circuit Court are not interchangeable.

leaves the Soviet Union no other choice."

The statement appeared to be the death knell for the Geneva test ban talks after 338 sessions began in October, 1958.

President Kennedy charged the Soviets with endangering everyone on earth by resuming atomic testing. He called emergency conferences to consider whether the United States would follow suit.

Arthur H. Dean, chief U.S. delegate at Geneva, said Soviet negotiator Semyon K. Tsarapkin, has never given any indication at all that this was coming."

British delegate David Ormsby-Gore said "the verdict of the world on this will no doubt be clear."

The Soviets themselves showed concern about the possible effect of their about-face on world opinion. The Soviet statement went to great length to plead a "peace-loving policy." It directed an appeal to those foreigners "who would perhaps judge to severely the Soviet Union's carrying out tests of new types of nuclear weapons."

A-Test Fine Example of Red Tactics

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing—which makes no sense at all from the viewpoint of world opinion—is the extreme example of Russian terror tactics based on naked power.

1. It shows contempt for what the rest of mankind thinks.

2. It comes at a time when Premier Khrushchev has created a crisis on Berlin and is like a savage nudge to the West that Russia means business.

3. The announcement that this gives Soviet scientists a chance to test super-super bombs—equal to 100 million tons of TNT and far greater than any bomb the West possesses—is sheer, brutal, terror technique.

Even the circumstances under which the decision was announced Wednesday—while American and Russian negotiators were meeting in Geneva to discuss a test ban—makes this Russian move contemptuous of world opinion.

Three years ago the United States and Russia stopped testing, began negotiations to put a permanent ban on it. Wednesday the two sides had held their 338th meeting and, as before, with absolutely no progress.

There had been increasing pressure in this country, inside and outside Congress, for President Kennedy to order a resumption of American testing on the grounds that the negotiations for a ban were hopeless.

If the Russians had waited a week or so more, maybe the United States would have resumed. Then Moscow could have had a propaganda field-day, blaming the United States as the enemy of mankind.

And Russia then could have announced that it, too, would resume testing but only in self-defense because the United States had done so.

Instead—just as 25 neutral nations were pouring representatives into Belgrade for a meeting starting Friday—Moscow made its announcement which shocked capitals around the world.

Yet, for years it had been assumed that Russia and the Western powers were equally anxious to avoid any action which might

President Presents the Cold Facts

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's statement that West Berlin would be "untenable" if it were subjected to a direct attack by the Soviet Union obviously reflects the coldly realistic assessment of his top military advisers.

The chief executive, in his news conference Wednesday, went on to say that it is hoped Soviet awareness of U.S. determination to defend West Berlin will prevent Soviet attack.

He termed the few thousand U.S. troops in the city as "hostage to that intent."

Kennedy's comments were different from views expressed in his message to the nation on July 25.

In that speech the President said: "I hear it said that West Berlin is militarily untenable—and so was Bastogne and so, in fact, was Stalingrad. Any dangerous spot is tenable if men—brave men—will make it so."

The U.S. Army believes that it has about 6,500 brave men in West Berlin, part of the total of slightly over 13,000 American, British and French forces garrisoned the free part of the old German capital.

Such a force, in an isolated area 110 miles from the main Allied forces in West Germany, could not be expected to hold out against the massive weight of manpower the Soviet Union could bring to bear. There are estimates that 35 to 40 Soviet divisions are located in adjacent European Russian territory.

Kennedy's mention of direct attack by "the Soviet Union" was interesting in that he made no reference to East German Communist military forces. Some Bonn government officials say the East German army consists of six divisions (which they consider unreliable from the Soviet viewpoint), plus police-type units and an air force.

The defenders of West Berlin would have some basic advantages, even if temporary, including the military precept that defense is easier than attack.

Defense of West Berlin would be city-type fighting—unless of course the Communists wanted to destroy West Berlin by all-out air and ground bombardment.

In city-type fighting, some of the firepower effectiveness of modern Soviet arms could be negated, the situation coming nearer to being equalized until overwhelming masses of Soviet manpower poured in.

Could the Berlin garrison be reinforced and re-supplied after it came under attack?

Unless the Western forces wanted to shoot their way through, the closing of the highway and rail line would be simple.

Shutting off the air corridor would be more difficult, involving a decision by the Communists to start shooting down planes. This

Needless Torture

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKIN
Dear Helen: I have been wanting to write you for the past eight months about a problem which is driving me near crazy. I divorced three years ago, after living a hell on earth with a real bum whom I had to support. As a consequence I felt bitter toward all men until I met a handsome widower a year ago last spring. He proposed, I accepted. For me, he was the Alpha and Omega of my life. Shortly after our engagement I happened to have an errand in town which took me past his place of business. Naturally, I stopped to say hello. There, seated by my fiancé's desk, holding his hand, was the get-around widow of town. I could have killed her when she said, "per as a Can-Can girl, 'Sorry, we've got a date, but we'd be glad to drive you home.'" I fainted out, hurt beyond words.

Of course, it's all off between the widower and myself. Even

Two Fantasy Worlds on Television

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Some people want to go to heaven when they leave this present vale of tears and terror.

I did, too, until I started noticing how the people live who are pictured in television commercials. Now, if I must depart this earthly scene, I want to be reborn one of them.

They dwell, it seems to me, in the best of all possible worlds—better even than heaven because it is more exciting.

There are two fantasy worlds on television.

One is the world shown on TV programs. It is a world of conflict and violence inhabited by gangsters, Western bad men, juvenile delinquents, psychotics and neurotics. It is a ferocious world in which fists thud endlessly, flashing knives are buried in human flesh, and guns bark, roar or spit flaming death.

Life in this world is just one long heyday for the undertaker and the bandage salesman.

The second TV fantasy world is shown in the commercials.

This is the dream world into which any sensible person would love to retire right now and live happily forever.

What are its attractions? Well, there are so many it is hard to know just where to begin.

The world of the TV commercial is a world of solvable problems. Most everybody has a trouble, but it is a small trouble easily and quickly remedied.

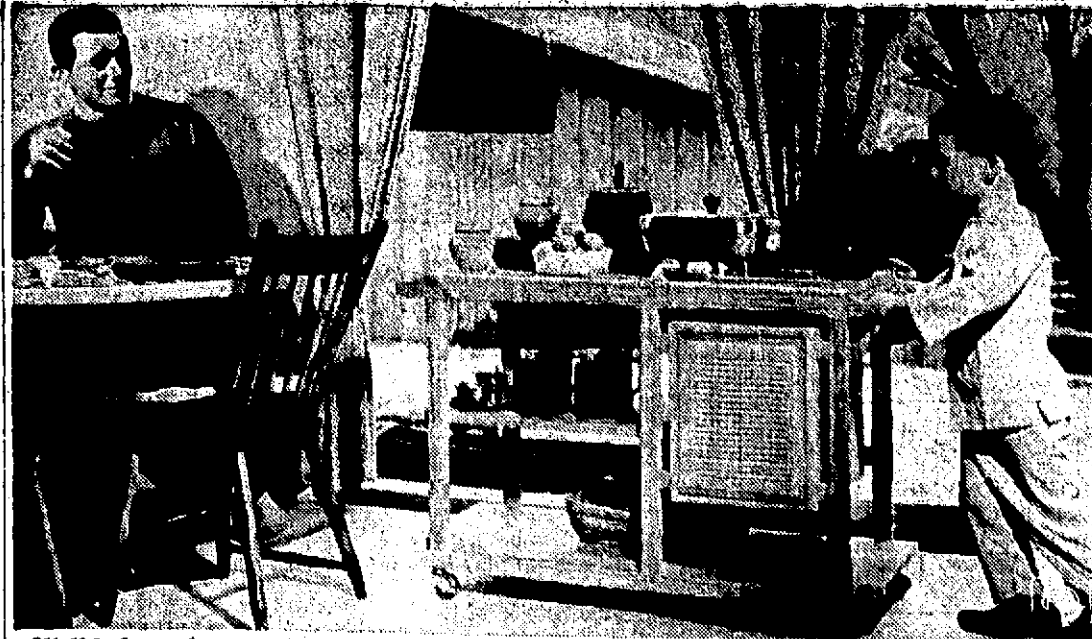

It is a world without cruelty or mayhem, inhabited by kindly people who help one another to live better by just a bit of friendly advice.

The repairman doesn't charge the harassed housewife $86.12 to fix her washing machine.

"What kind of soapsuds have you been using?" he asks with tolerant superiority. "Just switch to GRIME, and everything will be all right."

The housewife does—right there and then. Miracle of miracles, it works. If the repairman even bothers to give her a bill, he does it off camera.

In the world of the TV commercial no one worries about the hydrogen bomb, the Berlin crisis, or what to do about Cuba. No one is afflicted with cancer, heart disease, or a runaway ex-husband who refuses to meet his alimony payments.

Lonely girls or middle-aged women find new romance simply by switching to a new deodorant or gray-hair dye. Lonely men amuse their unruly locks with a special cream, and immediately are turned into irresistible Casa Novas.

That's the wonderful thing about this best of all possible worlds—nothing is really complicated.

We'd have better relations abroad if we exported not our explosive TV programs but our cheery TV commercials.

They'd show the rest of mankind a world we could all aspire to live in together—a world where all problems have easy answers, and everything always turns out for the best.

Wouldn't you like to buy a one-way ticket to there right now yourself?

mission to date him occasionally. This, my parents refuse to give, saying my reputation will suffer. Instead, they urge me to date a college boy who is active in sports but doesn't dance because of religious principles.

I love dancing, get excellent marks at school, shall be 17 in October and am treated with the greatest courtesy by my dates. My parents have always had confidence in me until now. Why should they pass judgment on this really fine boy and penalize him for the sins of his brother? —Disgusted.

Dear Disgusted: Give your parents the benefit of the doubt. They may know more than they tell. Ask them to be completely frank with you. But your boy friend is not his brother's keeper. More power to him for bringing honor to himself and his family. On the face of it, he should be encouraged, rather than discouraged.

Dear Helen: In a recent column a widow, who signed her letter "So Alone," wrote that life without her husband was hardly worth the living. My wife died a year and a half ago, our children are grown and married and I, too, feel as she does. Perhaps you could make it possible for the widow and myself to correspond, since we already have much in common. —Another Lonely One

Dear Lonely: Sorry, it is against my policy and that of this newspaper to play the role of cupid. Obviously it could lead to all sorts of trouble. The surest cure for loneliness is to go where people are. Join a club, take dancing lessons, look up old friends, be a friend, vacation in new places, study some favorite subject, have a hobby. And before you know it, you will be the most sought after man in your community.

Atlanta Is Quiet After Integration

ATLANTA (AP)—Heard from by praise from President Kennedy, Atlanta city and school officials believed today the critical period was over in the desegregation of four public high schools.

Mayor William B. Hartsfield said firmly the city has survived its most serious crisis.

But police continued elaborate security measures, ready to act promptly, as they did Wednesday when five men were arrested near the schools. One of the men said he was a member of the Nazi party.

Inside the schools nine Negroes—six girls and three boys—attended classes and ate in the cafeterias, shattering Atlanta's century-old tradition of segregation.

The persons most vitally concerned—the pupils and teachers—took the transition in stride, quietly and without incident.

Several of the Negroes said their reception was about what they would expect when entering any strange new school. All agreed they found no hostility or discourtesy among their schoolmates.

Several white pupils reported little attention was paid to the Negroes. "Their general feeling was that no one was friendly but no one was particularly unfriendly."

By prearrangement the Negroes arrived a few minutes after the start of classes and left a little early. There were no mobs, no disorders—not even any shouting.

About the time the schools were closing for the day, President Kennedy opened his news conference in Washington with a salute to Atlanta and Georgia citizens and officials for their "courage, tolerance and above all respect for the law."

L. J. O'Callaghan, president of the Atlanta Board of Education, said the successful outcome was largely due to the good work of the teachers. "I think what has happened is really remarkable," he said.

Gov. Ernest Vandiver reiterated his opposition to integration. But, he said, "I am grateful there has been no violence. Our fight will continue to be in the courts, not on the school grounds."

Chas. Coburn, 84, Veteran Actor Dies

By ANDREW MEISELS NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran actor Charles Coburn, whose distinguished face, gruff voice and ready wit were familiar to audiences for more than half a century, is dead at 84.

Coburn died of heart failure at Lenox Hill Hospital Wednesday, shortly after undergoing minor throat surgery. He had entered the hospital Monday for a check-up.

An energetic man more active than many half his age, Coburn came here after completing a 6-day run only Sunday night in an Indianapolis production of "You Can't Take It With You." The play drew the largest audiences in the Avondale Playhouse's 8-year history.

The stage performance was the last for a man who found his calling, his first success and the great love of his life on the stage.

He began a movie career at the age of 60 and also appeared on radio and television, but he never lost his great devotion to the live theater, and he felt it was the only true training ground for actors.

He left a fulltime career on the stage for the screen in 1937, on the death of his first wife, the former Ivah Wills. He had met her in 1905 while playing Orlando to her Rosalind in a touring company's production of "As You Like It."

Thereafter, the two became a theatrical love legend. Her death came as a great blow to Coburn, and he did not remarry until 22 years later when, in a Las Vegas ceremony he wed Winifred Jean Clements Natzka, a widow exactly half his age. She was with him at his death.

Coburn's versatility as an actor was as polished as the monochrome he wore to combat astigmatism, and the dignity he brought to his craft was as real as his ever-present cigar.

Charles Douville Coburn was born in Macon, Ga., on June 19, 1877. He began his career at 14 as a program boy in the famous old Savannah Theater and became the theater's manager three years later. At the age of 19, he came to New York, doing odd jobs to support himself until a Broadway opportunity came along.

In later years, Coburn was most often seen in films as a sporty old gent with a roving eye for the ladies and a tongue fast with quips.

In 1943, he won an Academy award for a supporting role in "The More the Merrier." He also received award nominations for roles in "The Devil and Miss Jones" (1941) and "The Green Years" (1946).

La. to Change Grant in Aid Program

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The St. Helena decision won't stop Louisiana from carrying out its private school plan, but the state's grant-in-aid program may have to be revamped.

This was the opinion of two key state segregation leaders today after a three-judge federal court struck down Louisiana's local option school closing law, ruling Wednesday that the state cannot close some schools and keep others open.

It issued a temporary restraining order forbidding St. Helena Parish (County) from abandoning its public schools.

Rural St. Helena—some 60 miles north of New Orleans—voted overwhelmingly this summer to authorize school closing rather than accept integration. Some 1,400 white voters were registered and just over 100 Negroes.

"This sort of election," said the court, "is like having only the cats vote on a program for kittens and young mice."

Chairman Frank Voelker Jr. of the State Sovereignty Commission said the court's decision was, in part, "inaccurate, misleading and highly irritating."

But, he said, grants-in-aid are apparently entirely legal so long as public schools are not closed.

"They are not closed in Louisiana and the state is making no effort to close them," Voelker said. "I do feel, however, our present grant-in-aid program needs considerable revision."

Louisiana has set up machinery to permit students to accept tuition grants to go to private segregated schools rather than to integrated schools.

Integration has been ordered in St. Helena and East Baton Rouge parishes, but no dates have been set.

State Sen. E. W. Gravolet Jr., the vice chairman of the Sovereignty Commission, called for an immediate statewide program of grants-in-aid. Though an enabling law has been passed, the state has not implemented it.

The federal judges—all from New Orleans—ruled the state local option law violated the 14th Amendment's equal protection clause.

IN THE BEST BRITISH TRADITION—As far as these Britons on the East-West Berlin border are concerned, that East German officer in armor on in background doesn't even exist. Completely ignoring him—and his armored car—General Sir Bohan Delacombe, left, British commandant of Berlin, chats with some of his officers at a tense border point. Neither general nor danger separate officer in center from his pipe.

FOR "REEL"—What's wrong with this picture is right. Soldier with the walke-talkie is co-ordinating medieval scene of soldier loading a catapult during filming of "The Great Escape" at Valencia, Spain.

THE STORY: At a swank Eastern boarding school a group of young women is about to consider Wonderful, Colo., as the location for the summer field trip. Meanwhile, Wonderful is planning to stage Indian ceremonial dances as a tourist attraction.

Chapter X "Let us vote then," Miss Cowgill said to her geology class.

The majority went for Wonderful. "Well done!" Miss Cowgill said. Ever since a summer in 1926, with a field party from Pennsylvania, she had longed to return to the area. The town she could not recall at all, but some miles west of it, there had been a mining camp where the presence of Silurian and Lower Devonian strata had never been established.

What was the name of the local geologist who had given such inspiring campfire lectures? She remembered that he had talked about explorations then in progress which in time would likely reveal some amazing facts about Silurian and Lower Devonian.

Miss Cowgill cleared her throat. "Now here is our list of the necessary clothing for the field. Pass the sheets around, please."

Quite unperturbed by the wrinkling of noses as her students scanned the lists, Miss Cowgill mentally went on to the next step. She was fully prepared to see at least one of the girls, in spite of dress rehearsal the night before, report at 6 a. m. for the first day's field trip attired in red leotards and ballet slippers.

And there would always be a few rebels in cashmere sweaters, but after one rousing trip through scrub oak, if it still existed in the country, the cashmere problem would be resolved.

For a few other sneaky characters who tried to get by with open-toed sandals, there were always excellent tailings ponds of gritty quartz and other abrasive wastes. Miss Cowgill's favorite statement in reply to protests after one of those little sorties was, "Now we know how the word 'tenderfoot' evolved, don't we?"

She herself wore sensible laced oxfords with Cuban heels, although she most preferred paratrooper's boots when in the field, and she had worn them ever since they became available after the war, until one of those things happened in 1955.

One of her students, who happened to be the daughter of a heavy contributor to Crench, sent her a snapshot showing Geology 2 gaily at work on a mine dump replete with wondrous specimens of orthothes chernungensis. Because of a bad camera angle Miss Cowgill's boots loomed up quite out of true perspective.

The mother, a socialite of some distinction, said, "Herbert! Do something before the whole world gets the idea we're sending Frances to a steel puddlers' trade school!"

Soon the president of Crench got a phone call from Herbert. Necessarily a worrier about everything, the president wired Miss Cowgill at once.

Please consider public relations effect of footgear suggest something less sturdy but still sensible.

While the girls suffered through the lists, Miss Cowgill made a mental note to look up the name of the geologist who lived in Wonderful.

Snoddy! That was it. Yes, Fran! T. Snoddy. Miss Cowgill sighed. On the Southern Ute reservation, David Brown and Peter Weldon got off their horses to lie down in the shade on a hill above a band of 500 sheep. "Like I've been telling you, this

Redlegs Streak Is Ended by the Pirates

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tom Sturdivant, an American League castoff, gained his fourth victory in five decisions and allowed only four hits for his fifth straight complete game as Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 3-1 Wednesday night.

That ended the Reds' brief winning streak at three and trimmed their National League lead to 2½ games over the second place Los Angeles Dodgers, who whipped the Chicago Cubs 5-2. San Francisco, after losing five in a row, regained third place from Milwaukee by beating the Braves 2-1. Philadelphia defeated St. Louis, 4-3.

In the American League, the New York Yankees backed Bill Stafford's four-hitter with solo home runs by Mickey Mantle (4-7) and Elston Howard for a 4-0 victory at Minnesota. That padded their lead to 2½ games ahead when second place Detroit lost 7-4 to Chicago's White Sox. Baltimore crushed the Los Angeles Angels 11-4. Cleveland rapped Washington 9-0 and Boston beat Kansas City 9-3.

Sturdivant, 31, struck out five and just missed a second straight shutout.

After giving up an unearned run in the second inning, on Gordy Coleman's single, his lone walk and a two-out error, Sturdivant retired 20 in a row before giving up singles by Coleman and Jerry Lynch with two out in the ninth. Then he got Gus Bell on a game-ending grounder.

The Pirates beat Bob Purkey (14-10) with two runs in the first inning. Bill Virdon's leadoff single, Dick Groat's triple and a wild pitch did it.

The Angels did it with two-run homers by Charlie Neal and Norm Sherry and the strikeout pitching of Larry Sherry, who fanned seven of the nine Cubs he faced in three innings of hitless relief. Southpaw Johnny Podres (17-4) was the winner. Dick Ellsworth (7-9) was the loser.

San Francisco managed only four hits, but paired two of them, a double by Joe Amalfitano and a triple by Willie McCovey, with an infield out for two runs in the fourth inning off Carl Willey (5-9). Mike McCormick (11-13) was the winner.

The last place Phils blew a 3-0 lead, but cracked a 3-3 tie with two out in the eighth inning on Don Demeter's RBI double, his second of the game off Card ace Ray Sadecki (12-7). Don Ferrarese (3-9) was the winner in relief.

Yankees Are Interested in Pennant

By JIM ROGERS

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP)—Mickey Mantle had just swatted his 47th home run, but there was little talk in the Yankee dressing room about that. Everyone was more concerned over how second place Detroit came out with Chicago.

Most of the Yankees had left the dressing room when the final score was posted: Chicago 7, Detroit 4.

That, coupled with New York's 4-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins behind the four-hit pitching of Bill Stafford Wednesday night, put the Yanks 2½ games ahead of the Tigers.

"There isn't much talk about the home runs," explained Yankee Manager Ralph Houk. "The boys are more interested in winning the pennant."

That feeling carries even to statistician Bill Kane, who makes no mention in his press sheet of how close Mantle and Roger Maris, who has 51 roundtrippers, are to Babe Ruth's record 60 homers.

The pennant fever was best exhibited Wednesday night by Maris who risked injury sliding hard into Minnesota second baseman Billy Martin when Martin was attempting to complete a double play. The ball sailed into the Twins' dugout and resulted in the Yanks' first run.

"I had to take my chances with an injury," said Maris. "The score was 0-0 at the time and if I could upset the double play, that meant a possible run. We're out to win the pennant and any records will be incidental."

Houk said he felt no concern at the slide, but "I would have if he hadn't tried to break up the play. These guys are all professionals now. They should know how to slide."

Triple Slam Likely in Jewish Meet

By MURRAY ROSE Associated Press Sports Writer

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—Gary Gubner, New York University's 19-year-old Samson, was rated a cinch today to score a triple slam in record fashion in the sixth Maccabiah games.

The powerful sophomore may have company in another NYU Violet, graduate Steve Damashek. Their record smashing victories in the discus throw and 400-meter run Wednesday helped atone a bit for disappointing defeats for the heavily manned Yanks in the 100-meter sprint and high jump.

Gubner, 6-2, 250-pounder, set one of the seven track and field records for the Jewish olympics with a discus throw of 164 feet, 4½ in. Damashek copped the 400 meter title over teammate Art Gardszwart of Arizona University in 48.8 seconds, his best time ever.

Both have their best events coming up. Gubner, a 6-foot plus shotputter, competes in his specialty today. Then he goes for the heavyweight lifting crown Sunday, where he far outclassed the field.

Damashek, a rugged six-footer, will try to complete his triple Sunday. He is entered in the 400 meter hurdles, his pet race, and the 1,600-meter relay in which the United States is heavily favored.

Stan Levinson, Toronto salesman and 1956 Olympian, nipped Jonas Spiegel of U. of Maryland, and Stan Freed, of Temple, in the last stride in winning the 100 meters in 10.6. Saul Levy, French dark horse and favored Gene Zubrinsky, of San Jose State, each broke the games record with a high jump of 6-4 but Levy won on fewer misses.

Fulbright Replies in a Way to Alford

By GORDON BROWN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., has replied—in a way—to a recent blast by Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., which was generally interpreted as being aimed at Fulbright. Neither man mentioned the other by name. But a reading of the Alford statement leaves little doubt it was directed at Fulbright. And a reading of Fulbright's subsequent speech leads to the conclusion he likely had Alford in mind.

Alford issued a statement critical of the Fulbright memorandum which led to a revision of rules under which military men may participate in information—or propaganda—seminars. In it Alford all but called for Fulbright's defeat in next year's election.

At the time Fulbright had no comment. But a week or so later, he addressed the National War College on the subject of "Public Policy and Military Responsibility."

In it he elaborated on his views that the military must remain subordinate to the civilian in a democracy, that the military must stay out of partisan politics.

He went on to criticize what he called the extreme conservatives, the "radicals of the right." Alford, by his own admission, is a far right conservative.

"The appeal of certain ideas espoused by the radicals of the right is not difficult to understand near brush with death 13 years ago, will be national honorary chairman of the 1961 Christmas Seal campaign.

Tigers Drop to Sox, Extending Yankees' Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The second place Detroit Tigers lost their second in a row to the Chicago White Sox, 7-4, Wednesday night and dropped 2½ games behind the New York Yankees, who beat Minnesota 4-0 on the four hit pitching of Bill Stafford. Elston Howard and Mickey Mantle homered for New York, with Mick tagging lefty Jim Kaat for No. 47. That left Mantle one game behind Babe Ruth's record-60 pace of 1927. Teammate Roger Maris, still at 51, now is only seven games ahead of Ruth.

The hottest home run slugger of the moment, Jim Gentile, belted his 43rd as third place Baltimore walloped five homers and crushed Los Angeles 11-4. It was Gentile's seventh home run in nine games, but he's six behind Ruth's pace for 136 games.

Cleveland clobbered Washington 9-0 and Boston whipped Kansas City 9-3.

In the National League Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 3-1 and trimmed the Reds' lead to 2½ games over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who beat the Chicago Cubs 5-2. San Francisco edged Milwaukee 2-1, and Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 4-3.

The Tigers, playing without flustered Norm Cash, the AL's batting leader at .366, committed three errors for the second straight game and were checked on five hits by southpaw Juan Pizarro (11-5), who struck out 10. Jim Bunning (15-10) was roughed up for 10 of Chicago's 15 hits, but it was a three-run eighth against reliever's Gerry Staley and Hank Aguirre that won it for the Sox.

Stafford (12-7) dueling Jim Kaat (7-13) with only a 1-0 lead until Mantle walloped his first home run in nine games leading off the seventh inning. Howard hit his 14th home run in the ninth, off reliever Ray Moore.

Gentile had three hits and drove in four runs, snatching the RBI lead from Maris with 124, for the Orioles, who picked up their other home runs from Jackie Brandt, Earl Robinson, Ron Hansen and Jerry Adair in support of Jack Fisher (8-11). Ron Mueller (4-8) was the loser. Ted Kluszewski homered for the Angels.

The Senators gave the Indians an unearned run in the second inning and then were rapped for eight runs in the fourth. Gary Bell (9-14) pitched his first shutout of the year with a four-hitter. John Gabler (3-7) was the loser. Winning right-hander Gene Conley (9-11) beat the A's and Jim Archer (6-11) with a tie-breaking, two-run single in the seventh for the Red Sox, who pushed across five more in the ninth.

stand," said Fulbright. "To a nation beset by onerous challenges and responsibilities, they offer deceptively quick and simple solutions."

"They tell us that we have only to proclaim our dedication to 'total victory' over world communism—real and imaginary—at home and our problems will be solved."

"They tell us that our system of alliances and our military and economic commitments abroad are unnecessary and dangerous, that they somehow 'play into the hands of the commission. Instead they offer us clear and simple solutions—ringing declarations about foreigners and rooting out the disloyal at home. And those who disagree with them, they say, are 'soft on communism.'"

Fulbright said it is the extremists who advocate a soft approach since "a truly tough approach . . . is one which accepts the challenge of communism with the courage and determination to meet it with every instrumentality of foreign policy—political and economic as well as military."

He said he finds astonishing the contention of "the radical right . . . that the internal communist menace is the primary problem of the cold war."

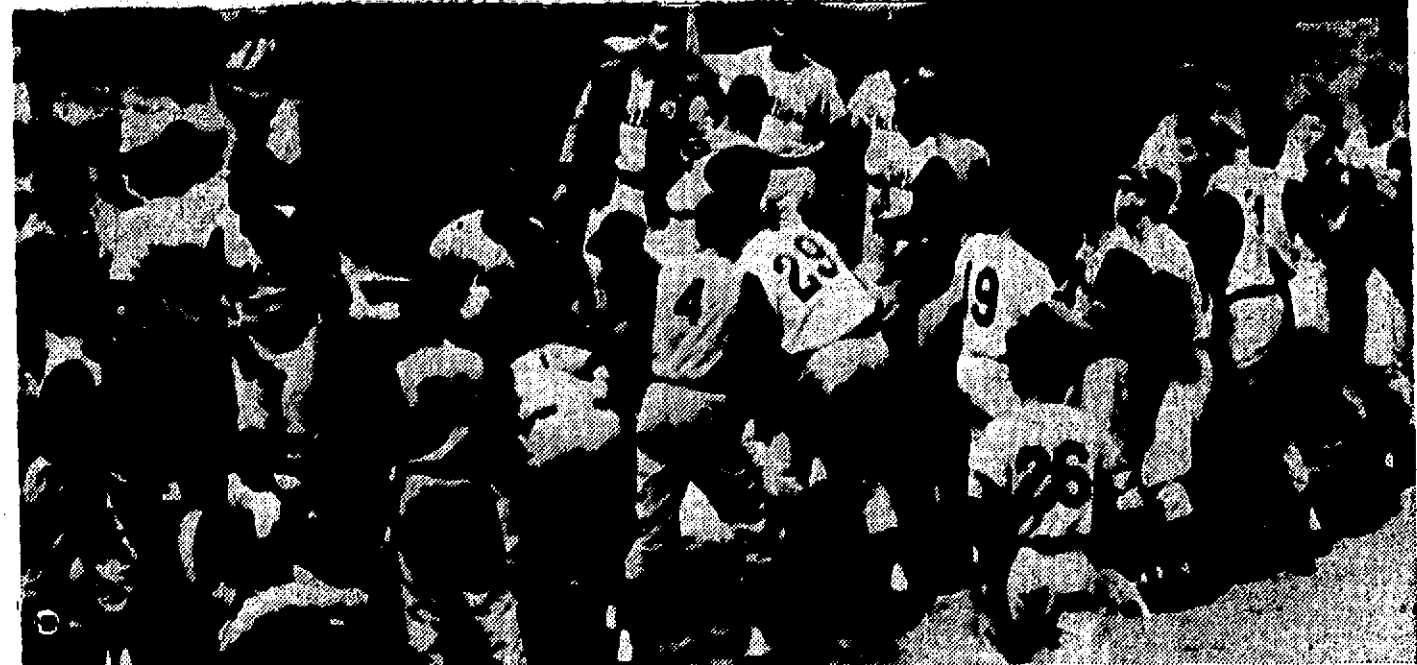

"They thus credit a wretched handful of communists in the United States with greater power and influence than the Soviet Union and Communist China with their vast military and political power."

"I think that this viewpoint is patently absurd. It reflects an amazing lack of confidence in the wisdom and good sense of the American people."

"The extremists of the right call themselves conservative." Fulbright added. "In my judgment their views are not conservative, but radical—radical because they fail to distinguish between democratic social progress and totalitarian communism, regarding the former as a step toward the latter."

"The true conservative is one who wishes to conserve the historic values of our society. He recognizes that the world does not stand still and that, because it does not, we must at times modify and reform traditional practices through orderly processes of change in order to adapt them to new conditions."

Fulbright added that "far from being a step toward communism,

Thinks Space May Be a Safety Valve

By AL DOPKING

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Dr. Werner von Braun says if man has to fight why doesn't he do it in outer space.

The atomic scientist told the Southwest Seminar on Nuclear energy last night that space exploration might well be the safety valve against World War III.

The 49-year-old director of the Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala., said history often provided safety valves such as the Crusades of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance.

"On both occasions potential explosive political situations were settled peacefully because the fighting men were busy elsewhere," he told more than 600 business and industrial leaders from five states.

He said that the present space race might also take up the job slack caused by automation in industry and mechanized agriculture.

His speech followed a day in which a dozen atomic scientists had stressed peacetime uses for nuclear energy.

For the first time, von Braun said, man is equipped to draw a bead on the moon and other planets. He said he would get there by using Saturn and possibly Niva chemical rockets.

He used a figure of $20 billion as the likely cost of putting a man on the moon. But he explained space and rocket research already was paying dividends.

Early dividends, he said included those in the field of electronics, medical research and the engineering field. He said jet drilling would enable deeper penetration of the earth for new sources of ore and hydrocarbons.

Dr. von Braun said two versions of the Saturn rocket, or possibly three, would be used in

Having Home Important in Getting Loan

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—You walk into the small loan office and the man asks you some questions and looks you over quizzically. He decides if you're a good risk or a bad risk. How?

What must you have to be classified with the good guys? Well, under one theory, it could be such things as a phone, a spouse, a yen for a home of your own, or a fairly lengthy stay at your present address and in your present job. The old-time credit manager, however, doesn't buy this necessarily. He will tell you that beyond such obvious things as your credit record, he really has to rely to a great extent on instinct. A lot of persons who needed some quick cash have found this ordeal by instinct tough enough. But now you are more and more likely to run up against a new obstacle: statistics. And this means that a lot of those who would have passed the test if the credit manager stuck to his instinct alone will be turned down today if he consults his charts.

Proponents of this law of probabilities, or averages say the new method of grading applicants is proving that a high percentage of those that the credit manager in the loan office would have passed are actually bad risks.

Many credit managers don't believe this, anymore than you will if you flunk the test. But converts to the slide rule approach to credit say it has proved itself by the one thing the small loan business appreciates most—a drop in the number of total losses and also in accounts that cost too much to collect. Donald L. Barnes Jr., executive vice president of the American Investment Co., St. Louis, Mo., predicts the new credit scoring system should cut its losses by 25 per cent. Last year it made $413 million in loans and had to write off $7 million as bad debts. He hopes the new system will cut this loss by $2 million a year.

Barnes says the system is based on a study of 14,000 accounts. And if you want to rate yourself as a good risk or a bad risk, here's what the averages revealed:

A phone was found in the residence of 31 per cent more of the good accounts than in the bad ones. Now the company definitely takes the possession of a phone into account when deciding whether to make a loan.

A married applicant was found to be a much better risk than an unmarried person. This confirmed previous lending experience, but to a greater degree perhaps than formerly believed.

And a significantly higher percentage of good accounts owned their own home or were buying one on a forever-and-forever basis. The percentage of bad accounts among home owners was far lower.

This may seem grossly unfair to a bachelor or spinster who prefers to, or has to, live in rented quarters and for any number of reasons cannot have, or doesn't want to have, a telephone.

But Barnes insists that figures don't lie.

Only three states in the nation produce more cotton than Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — It will be up to the Hot Springs City Council to name a temporary replacement for City Atty. Norwood Phillips Jr., against whom forgery charges were filed last week. Many Folks Scared of New Adventures

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

In the middle of the jet age you still haven't found the courage to take your first airplane ride, don't feel too bad. Many famous people have been scared of new adventures.

When Gioacchino Rossini, composer of the "The Barber of Seville" and other noted operas, took his first train ride in 1830, he became so frightened he fainted—and had to be carried off at the next station.

Summarizing husbands: We do not guarantee the following figures, but someone has estimated that the average husband in his lifetime wears out 103 suits, takes 10,920 baths, gets 1,690 haircuts, uses 507 tubes of tooth paste, works 96,000 hours, tells 123,002 lies—and twice tell his wife she is wonderful.

Oldtime wonder drugs: To draw out the pain from headaches, medieval physicians advised their patients to sip water from a trough from which an ox had drunk. This was about 500 years b.a. (before aspirin).

Don't apologize if the boss catches you yawning on the job. A yawn helps build up your energy for more work. Scientists say it tones up the muscles of the mouth, chest, back and arms.

Bold buzzer: An ordinary honey bee is about the bravest creature on earth. The only thing it is afraid of is smoke.

The Empire State Building, sold the other day for a tidy $65 million, no longer can boast it is the tallest man-made structure. It is television transmitters—in Cape Girardeau, Mo.; Portland, Maine, and Roswell, N.M.

Worth repeating: "Life today is like living in a pressure cooker with a stuck safety valve."

Have you ever clocked how fast your wife talks? If she is average, her conversation will flow at the rate of 125 words a minute.

Animal lore: Did you know that some fish can walk, that electric eels can produce up to 700 volts of electricity, that, despite their bulk, elephants require only about half as much sleep as people?

Forgotten hero: The odds are there aren't 10 kids in America who can identify a man who should be one of their greatest idols—Ernest Hamwi of Damascus. His claim to fame: He invented the ice cream cone in 1904.

It was Artemus Ward who observed, nearly a century before the credit card appeared, "Let us all be happy and live within our means, even if we have to borrow the money to do it with."

Rangers Ordered

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A U. S. space agency official says four more Ranger spacecraft have been ordered for close-up television exploration of the moon.

Dr. Robert C. Seamans Jr., associate administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Tuesday that addition of the four $20-million craft will hike the total program to nine spacecraft. Cal Tech's jet propulsion laboratory builds them.

The first of the Rangers was launched Aug. 23. Seamans said that the acceleration of the Ranger program is generally designed to land an American on the moon by 1970.

A new director will be added for the Little Rock Federal Home Loan Bank under a bill passed by Congress.

That will make a total of nine elected directors in addition to four appointed by the chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in Washington.

The Little Rock bank serves Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas and New Mexico. Directors are elected from each state in proportion to the stock held by savings and loan associations in the federal bank.

Home loan banks provide approximately the same service for savings and loan associations as the Federal Reserve Banks provide for commercial banks.

The Little Rock bank will get another director because of a provision in the law that no state shall have less representation than it had before the act was passed. The act is designed primarily to change the method of electing directors and to eliminate classification of directors.

Without the provision dealing with loss of representation, Louisiana would have lost a board member. Thus it will be necessary to add one member to provide representation according to stock holdings.

The change in the method of electing directors will apply to all 11 Home Loan Banks. It will result in increases in the number of directors in five banks besides Little Rock.

You can catch your own catfish dinner at a new West Memphis area restaurant.

Called "Fish 'N Barrel" and located near the Mississippi River on Interstate 55, the restaurant features catfish with hush puppies and other traditional trimmings.

You don't have to hook your own fish, but if you want to try your luck for dinner the management will provide the tackle free and clean the fish for a slight extra charge.

Non-fishermen order a dinner just as in any other restaurant. And whether you catch your own or not, you'll dine on codded catfish. The fish are raised in a three-acre lake and fed on a formula prepared by a fish biologist.

There have been similar "catch and eat" restaurants offering trout bass or other fish but this is believed to be the first one featuring catfish. It's the idea of Abbot Wildelcomb and B. W. McKinney of West Memphis and F. Allen Brown of Memphis.

Oversea Loan Plan Out of Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate House conferees have approved a five-year $7.2-billion overseas loan program but eliminated its most controversial provision, authority to borrow from the Treasury. President Kennedy said the compromise was "wholly satisfactory."

He hailed it as "an important decision for the United States and the free world."

The conferees, who have been ironing out differences between Senate and House foreign aid bills, announced the loan program compromise Tuesday night.

With the major obstacles behind them, they meet again today to wrap up their work. The compromise then goes before the Senate and House.

Loans for this year, $1.2 billion, will be included in an over-all foreign aid program for fiscal 1962. It will be the biggest foreign aid authorization in years, $4,253,500,000.

Kennedy originally asked $8.8 billion for a five-year program to be financed by borrowing from the Treasury. The Senate voted $8 billion for the program and approved the borrowing authority.

In the conferees' compromise, the Senate yielded the borrowing authority while the House agreed to a five-year, $1.2 billion program the House had voted.

Reporting the compromise after a night session, Sen. J. William Fulbright, D Ark., told reporters it was "not exactly what I wanted but a compromise."

Under the agreement, Kennedy receives authorization for $1.2 billion in development loan funds this year and $1.5 billion for each of the next four years.

The House agreed to language under which Kennedy may, as he asked, make agreements committing funds for loans in the years ahead, subject to congressional appropriation.

Rules U. S. Can't Keep Cuban Ship

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A federal judge says the hijacked Cuban freighter Bahia de Nipe is protected by the doctrine of sovereign immunity and should be returned to Cuba — but not until claimants against it have exhausted all their avenues of appeal.

The judicial branch of the federal government "should avoid any conflict with the executive in the field of international relations," U.S. District Judge Walter E. Hoffman said Tuesday night in supporting the U.S. State Department's decision to return the 3,800-ton vessel to the Castro government.

But he stayed execution of his order to permit anticipated appeals to the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals on Sept. 5.

After that, the case could be taken to the U.S. Supreme Court by the persons and firms which have sought to have the sugar-laden ship sold to satisfy alleged indebtedness of more than $1,272,000.

The judge had said Saturday that, regardless of his decision, the ship must remain in Chesapeake Bay in possession of the Coast Guard while the issues are under appeal.

Ten days ago, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said "the BACKSEAT BAND—Backseat passengers are always blowing about something, but not like the 4th U.S. Armored Division's brass band does. Each band member, including the conductor, has the rear seat of a military automobile to himself. The band's conductor has to conduct not only the band as well in Grafenwoehr, West Germany.

prompt release of the vessel is necessary to secure the observance of the rights and obligations of the United States."

The Bahia de Nipe was bound for a Soviet Baltic port when her master and 10 crewmen overpowered and imprisoned 23 other crewmen and sailed her into Chesapeake Bay in search of political asylum.

A day after the ship arrived,

Leaving Home for 60 years No Easy Task for a Mother — But Getting Old Not Easy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—They were two women alone in a big old home that held long memories for both.

As they reached the front door, the daughter, a stout comfortable woman so deep in middle age her face bore no resentment of it, turned to the other.

"I know it's hard for you to leave, Mama," she said. "But Jim and I just couldn't stand the thought of you living any longer all by yourself in this old house."

"We'd never be able to forgive ourselves if anything happened to you."

"You'll be happier with us. Truly you will, Jim loves you as much as he did his own mother."

The white-haired old lady smiled. She reached out a frail, blue-veined hand and patted her daughter's forehead.

"I realize it's for the best, Evelyn," said. "Why don't you go on out and join Jim in the car? I'd like to take one more last look around just to be sure everything is right."

"That is such a nice young couple that's moving in. I wouldn't want them to find anything not in place."

Her daughter sighed and said: "All right, Mama. I understand. But don't be long. We have a long way to drive."

After she had left, the old lady turned to say goodbye alone and in her own way to the home she had entered as a bride nearly 60 years before.

A hint of dusk darkened the soft summer air outdoors. But the old lady made no move to switch on the lights. The feeling of gathering twilight suited her mood.

The old lady wanted to go one by one through every room, but she felt it would be unfair to keep her daughter and son-in-law waiting. But there were three rooms she had to say farewell to.

She paused briefly in the huge, high-ceilinged living room where the family had been warmed by hundreds of long winter evening fires.

Then she went out to the kitchen, where she had as a bride learned to cook on a wood-burning stove, and later bathed the children in bathtubs on the floor.

Still dry eyed, she rested a moment with one hand on the worn walnut staircase before mounting to her bedroom. She stood silently by a great brightly gleaming old brass bedstead, the center of her life.

Here all her six children had been delivered. Here her first born son, his eyes wide in wonder, had been strangled by diphtheria. Here she had brought her husband his last glass of water and he had died, still holding her hand.

The remembering tears came then into the old lady's eyes. She bent and patted pillows. Then she August 18, two Philadelphia longshoremen with claims against the nationalized Cuban company which manages the ship sought to have her attached and sold to satisfy their claims.

The list of claimants grew rapidly, including pleas for back wages put in by the 11 defecting crewmen. The Coast Guard, acting on orders from Washington, refused to permit a deputy U.S. marshal to serve attachment papers on the freighter.

Last Saturday, Hoffman ruled orally the Coast Guard exceeded its authority when it prevented the deputy marshal from carrying out his job. On Monday, he said President Kennedy exceeded his authority in instructing the Coast Guard to repulse the attachment efforts.

In his memorandum, however, Hoffman said the doctrine of sovereign immunity—which protects a government's property from seizure—prevents the claimants from any benefits of attaching the ship.

suddenly knelt and kissed the bedspread.

"Goodbye," she whispered.

Outside Jim honked the car horn—not too impatiently.

"You know we were lucky to find a young couple willing to rent a museum like your old home," he told his wife. "But they're fond of antiques and they liked all the pieces except one."

"What was that?" asked Evelyn.

"That old brass bedstead," said Jim.

"What do they plan to do with it?"

"Junk it," said Jim.

The old lady came out the door, carefully locked it, then walked down the front steps like a soldier smiling at a firing squad.

"I'm ready at last," she said. "Let's be on our way. Maybe we can still get home before it's too dark."

Russia Blames Allies for All Tension

MOSCOW (AP)—Again blaming the United States and its allies for the current world tension, the Soviet government says it has stopped returning servicemen to civilian life and warned that aggressors will be wiped out "once and for all" if war starts.

A statement issued Tuesday night by the Communist party Central Committee and the Soviet Cabinet said Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, the Soviet defense minister, had been ordered to hold up demobilization of military personnel whose service would normally end this year "until the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

The number of men involved was not announced, but Soviet Premier Khrushchev said July 8 that a military cutback of 1.2 million men which began last year was being halted because of the Western attitude on Berlin. How far the cutback had gone was never announced.

Khrushchev on Aug. 7 warned that Soviet troop strength might have to be boosted even further. He accused the West of pushing the world "to a dangerous brink" in the conflict over Berlin, which stems from Khrushchev's pledge to sign a peace treaty with East Germany's Communist regime by the end of the year. The Communists contend a treaty would give East Germany control over Western access routes to West Berlin.

President Kennedy responded to the Soviet diplomatic offensive by offering to negotiate but stressing the West's intention to fight for Berlin if necessary. He called for the biggest U.S. troop buildup since the Korean war, including the right to hold military men in service.

The latest Soviet statement accused Kennedy of making threats reinforcing them with an arms buildup by the United States and its North Atlantic allies and presenting "something like an ultimatum, demanding essentially that we withdraw in general the question of the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany."

"If the imperialists," said the statement, "in connection with the signing of a peace treaty with Germany, again seek to draw us into the abyss of war, we are fully resolved to put an end once and for all to the forces engendering aggression."

Would Ban Profits to Officials

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The House Public Expenditures Committee today recommended passage of a bill to prevent state employees, including legislators, from profiting from a state construction program.

The bill, by Ouachita County Rep. David Pryor, would specifically prohibit the awarding of a contract for work authorized in the current special session to any firm in which a state employee, legislator or board or commission member is an officer, a board member or owner of 1 per cent of the stock.

This would mean all legislators in the construction business would be barred from work under appropriations by the special session. It apparently would mean

Election Losers Challenge Vote

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—Two apparent losers of a city primary election have filed suit challenging the election results.

Major John Wood and Alderman Robert Hansel Harris, apparently defeated in the Aug. 8 Democratic runoff primary, asked for a recount of votes. Their suits, filed Tuesday, alleged irregularities in voting and in conduct of the election.

Wood lost to J. T. Brown by 1 vote. Harris was defeated by George Textor by one vote.

The Democratic Central Committee denied their request for a recount.

The suits claim 21 illegal votes were cast. They allege such irregularities as voting without a poll tax receipt record, voting twice or voting in the wrong ward.

The suits also contend one election judge had made a substantial wager on the outcome of the election and therefore was not qualified. They also alleged irregularities in counting procedures.

The apparent winners are defendants in the suit in circuit court.

More than nine tenths of the forest area of Arkansas is under organized fire protection.

Fancy Terms on the Paris Creations

By NADÉANE WALKER

PARIS (AP)—The just-released pictures of new Paris creations show that just about every term in the fashion dictionary has been dragged out and put to work for the 1961-62 fall and winter clothes. Capes, hoods, scarves, drapes, flares, godets, diagonals, tucks and gathers are all in the picture.

Basically, it's a princess sensation, with a cautious approach to figure-fitting lines. Only Marc Bohan of Dior throws caution to the winds and boldly embraces the stringbean silhouette. Even he makes some full flared skirts for insurance, just in case women are not quite ready to go back to corsets yet.

Materials, colors and costume jewelry are kept sober, and for good reason. The clothes themselves are busy with details and intricate bias cuts. One designer aptly describes them as "clothes conscious clothes."

For those already following Paris on length, there's no need to take up or let down hems. The dressmakers are holding the line just below the knee, with a few skittish mid-knee exceptions.

Brown is a top color, crowded closely by the purple range from prune to cyclamen. When red, green and blue appear, they are usually bold and bright. Black, gray and beige are still good for daytime.

Hats have shrunk to reasonable sized helmets and turbans. Many of them are in fur, to go with such fur trimmings as collars, cuffs, hems and narrow outline bands.

Belts have never been so plentiful since the sack conigned them to the limbo that is always only temporary in the fashion world. Most of them are wide ones for good measure.

Plaids are almost the only break from plain solid colors. Things get gay for the evening, though, with sinuous sequins and beads, glittering lame and embroidery, brocades and cut velvet. The long slim evening dress has snatched the lead from big skirted ball dresses.

Pentagon to Get a New Defense Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today nominated Washington attorney Stuart L. Pittman to be assistant secretary of defense in charge of the Pentagon branch of Civil Defense.

Kennedy, in a reorganization plan announced last month, assigned federal shelter program and other protection of the civilian population to the Defense Department.

The OCDM, headed by Frank B. Ellis, was left with the responsibility for coordinating Civil Defense operations of executive departments, working with state and local governments and developing relief and stockpiling programs. The administration intends to reorganize OCDM into a new Office of Emergency Planning.

Kennedy decided on the reorganization plan with the idea of replacing major Civil Defense responsibilities in the Defense Department. He declared Civil Defense should remain civilian in character and leadership.

The new office in the Defense Department pays $20,000 a year.

Rates High in Jobs
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas ranked third in an eight-state area in the number of new jobs opened last year. Arkansas had 12,034 compared to 22,650 for Tennessee and 14,313 for Alabama.

$5,000 for Third Dist. Show Here

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Livestock Exposition will get $40,000 in state funds for premiums this year and four district livestock shows will receive $5,000 each. The state Board of Finance made the allocations Tuesday. Various county fairs will divide $15,000 on the basis of population. District shows will be held in Jefferson, Hempstead, Sebastian and Mississippi counties.

U.S. Vaccines Being Used by Russians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Vaccines in the Soviet Union, heart attacks in middle-aged smokers, and how to know a good fish when you see one are subjects for focus on health: Soviet Push Vaccines.

The Soviet Union is pushing development of various vaccines against influenza, mumps and respiratory infections, say U.S. doctors after a recent trip to the U.S.S.R.

The Soviet Union is preparing a billion doses of live-virus, oral polio vaccine from seed viruses obtained from Dr. Albert Sabin. Some of these doses are to be offered to other countries, scientists report.

Most other Soviet vaccines reported also involve live viruses as opposed to killed virus vaccines used widely in the United States. Soviet researchers say they have a live-virus mumps vaccine which has been given to 50,000 children by injection with good response.

The Heavy Smoker
Why are death rates from heart attacks among middle-aged men up to 1½ times as high for heavy cigarette smokers as for non-smokers?

The American Heart Association's newsletter says a possible explanation may exist in a study by a Philadelphia research team. The team found that two cigarettes smoked within 10 minutes raised the level of some fats in the blood—and the effect lingered for at least 40 minutes.

Perhaps nicotine from smoking stimulates the nervous system and the adrenal glands to release a form of adrenalin that frees fats from storage areas in the body, researchers suggest.

It could explain why smokers have higher levels of cholesterol in their blood. Cholesterol is a blood fat which is suspected of contributing to heart disease by clogging and narrowing arteries. Good Fish or Bad?

During these hot summer days when the ardent fisherman in the family brings home his catch, you might ask for health's sake if he can tell a good fish from a spoiled one.

The Connecticut State Department of Health offers guides. Among them: Good fish have bright red gills, usually closed. Eyes are bright and full. Scales are adherent. Body is stiff and tail rigid. Flesh is firm. The fish sinks in water. Bad fish float, have dull, opaque eyes; pale gray or yellowish brown gills, a soft and limp feel.

Actor Improving

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—German movie actor Horst Buchholz, seriously injured in a road accident, was operated on today and doctors said afterward his condition was "satisfactory considering the circumstances."

After the abdominal operation, Buchholz also regained consciousness for the first time since his cream-colored American convertible crashed into a tree at high speed in a Munich suburb Tuesday night. Police thought the actor might have been tired and fallen asleep.

TV Actors Rarely Watch Own Shows

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Authors read books; movie stars usually are movie fans; stage actors go to the theater. But most of the people who make television shows rarely or never watch TV.

This curious and sad situation may account for the quality of some programs.

Over a four-week period, this reporter has talked to scores of actors, writers, producers and directors. None has confessed freely to spending time in front of the set; some actually have boasted they never even look at their own shows.

They make it sound like a chore and excuse themselves by saying there really isn't time. But there does seem to be time for them to attend movies, follow their favorite baseball club and toast their skins beside pools that TV paid for.

The creator-writer-producer of a forthcoming TV series was describing his show in the usual pre-season terms: "fresh, vigorous, realistic, dynamic."

At my suggestion that theme and format seemed dreadfully reminiscent, he waved a condescending hand.

"That's the real problem," he said, wrinkling his brows dramatically. "Very few of us who are producing and creating new shows are what you'd call avid TV viewers."

Most of us, in fact, would be classified in that tiny egghead group that enjoys the really cultural type of program and supports educational television. It's quite hard to guess what the public likes.

Another young man whose substantial income is derived entirely from commercial television confessed with a proud chuckle that the one TV set in his three-car, heated-pool home blew the picture tube five months ago and he has no plans to have it repaired.

"We haven't even missed it," he said. "Not even the children." The star of an enormously successful series has never owned a television set—and has never seen his show except to watch the unfinished, rough programs at the studio. Or so he alleges.

One of the fall season's little ironies is the discovery by Richard Boone that he will be competing occasionally against himself this fall. CBS' "Have Gun, Will Travel" will run against NBC's Saturday night movie feature—and Boone has found that he was an actor in three of the first nine vintage movies to be shown.

"I hope the audience will find I'm a better actor today than I was 10 years ago," said Paladin.

The Pulaski County Rural School district is the largest in the state serving nearly 700 square miles. Waldron, Scott county is second with 651 square miles.

Two U. S. Mail Boats make daily deliveries over a 65-mile route on Lake Winnepesaukee in New Hampshire.

Won't Help Bottle College Money Bill

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas House today killed an attempt to bottle up college appropriation bills until the Senate passes an overall college board measure.

Senate-approved construction appropriations for the University of Arkansas, Arkansas AM&N, Arkansas Tech and Arkansas State were sidetracked into the House Public Expenditures Committee Tuesday after the Senate showed scant inclination to pass a general board bill.

The House voted 74 to 8 today to suspend its rules and put all bills now in committee on the calendar.

Earlier Mississippi County Rep. L. H. Autry, chairman of the Public Expenditures Committee, had said he would not be a party to installing action on appropriation measures as a pressure tactic to force Senate acceptance of an overall board.

While the House was voting on whether to suspend the rules, Autry checked out the college appropriations bills, put them in his pocket and left the chamber.

This caused consternation among those who wanted to vote on the bills and there was some talk of sending a sergeant at arms after Autry.

However, Autry returned the bills to the clerk about 15 minutes later and said he was washing his hands of them. He indicated he had checked out the bills merely to upset opponents of the overall board.

The House today defeated by 17-54 vote an alternate overall board bill proposed by Bradley County Rep. Bill Wells.

Wells wanted to give the board advisory authority but his bill contained a kicker. It would have required election of members of present university and college boards instead of appointment by the governor. The bill already passed would prohibit members of individual college boards from serving on the general board. The House has not yet passed an appropriation bill in this special session. The Senate cleared its calendar Tuesday and is now waiting for the House to act.

Autry said he has supported overall board proposals for 10 years, but he did not feel the special session should be prolonged indefinitely because no agreement can be reached at this time on such a plan.

The House passed its overall board bill Monday. The Senate indicated Tuesday it does not intend to pass a bill as strong as the House measure, which would give the overall board authority over operating and construction budgets at the University of Arkansas and seven state colleges.

Sen. John Eldridge of Augusta has prepared amendments to a Senate version. His proposals would strip the overall board of all power. The board as envisioned by Eldridge would have only advisory authority and that only in the construction field.

Eldridge's amendments may be offered today. The Senate appeared inclined to adopt them.

Persistent Gold Price Rise Watched

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The slow but persistent rise in the price of gold is being watched closely in New York financial circles—and doubtless in Washington official circles.

They remember the dollar's troubles last fall when the gold price rose to $40.50 on the London market, compared with the official $35 an ounce here.

Talk of a possible devaluation of the dollar was averted—and later proved groundless. But Washington still is working at seeing that another dollar crisis doesn't arise.

This latest upsurge in the price of gold coincides with a drop in U.S. exports, after their strong advance in the earlier months of 1961 had helped bring the outgo of dollars from this country closer in line with the inflow of dollars.

Although there is still a deficit, attractiveness of gold for investors also is coming at a time when U.S. government spending is rising, bringing with it an increase in the prospective U. S. Treasury deficit.

All of this doesn't threaten the value of the dollar now. But it makes for some nervousness lest it might give the dollar some trouble in the future.

Still unsolved is the long-range problem of balancing our outflow of dollars for imports, foreign aid, travel, and overseas investment with the inflow of dollars from exports, services and earnings on investments.

Right now, however, the rise in gold prices in London to the highest point since late winter is attributed to European problems rather than American ones.

First was a British financial crisis which weakened the pound sterling, caused a flight of investment money from London and led to austerity measures by the British government.

Next came the Berlin crisis. This is reported to be causing some holders of West German investments, both here and abroad, to be turning in their funds for cash—just in case.

Since early July the price of gold on the London market—after about five months of stability—has gone up 14½ cents an ounce. This week it reached $35.18.

That price is high enough to make it profitable to buy gold from the U.S. Treasury and ship it to London for sale on the open market.

But New York bankers haven't repented any such move of consequence by the foreign national banks that are entitled to buy from the Treasury.

New York bankers say this country and its European friends should be able to handle the present steady upward creep in gold prices and to ward off any such gold rush as upset world financial markets last fall. At least they hope so.

Murder, Suicide Is the Ruling

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A 60-year-old man killed his wife, then took his own life today, Dr. Howland Dishongh, county coroner, said.

The bodies of Lee Lawson and his wife, Ruby, 47, were found in a booth at Newton's Tavern, where both worked, by a daughter, Mrs. Walter Preston, who lives in an apartment at the rear of the building.

Dishongh said Mrs. Lawson died from one bullet in the head and that Lawson died from two bullet wounds, one in the chest and one in the head.

A .25 caliber pistol was in Lawson's hand.

The shootings apparently occurred soon after the Lawsons came to work.

Neighbors said the Lawsons were involved in divorce proceedings.

A neighbor said he had heard shots shortly before the bodies were found but was unable to get in the locked front door of the cafe.

Annex Order Is Appealed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—An order to annex 17.8 square miles to Little Rock was appealed to the Kansas Supreme Court today.

The annexation has been tied up in courts since November of 1959, when Little Rock voters approved annexation of about 22 square miles southwest of the city. The annexed area was reduced to 17.8 square miles before approval by County Judge Arch Campbell.

Chancellor Jim Merrill of McGee, hearing a court suit against the annexation on exchange of circuits, approved the annexation last Feb. 8. Last July he overruled additional motions to set aside the approval.

The case was appealed by W. S. Rucker and others who object to the annexation.

Summering Line, a railroad through the Alps, passes through 15 tunnels and over 12 viaducts.

Publicity Board to Tighten Up

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—L. C. Dial of Brinkley, chairman of the state Publicity and Parks Commission, said Tuesday that members of the group planned to take a closer personal supervision over its affairs.

He said he wanted to stress that the policy was not meant as censure of Director Ted Woods or his staff.

And Dial said it had nothing to do with Woods' announcement in June that he would not place any more advertising in Holiday magazine because of an editorial he construed as critical of the South.

Dial said the commission decision was part of an effort to improve services.

The commission met in Little Rock last weekend.

Facts of Life in Areas of Arkansas

By BOB HARRING
Associated Press Staff Writer

The rubber gun is making a comeback.

It's not the old familiar rubber gun which was a byproduct of the automobile business and the boom isn't exactly sweeping Arkansas yet, but at least one Little Rock subdivision now boasts the weapons.

The kids, however, haven't come up with an automatic rubber gun yet.

And the modern ammunition is rubber bands, not the strips cut from old automobile innertubes which were the oldstyle rubber gun "bullets." The trend to tube less tires probably has wiped out the old time source of ammunition.

Remember the rubber gun? It was cut from wood, roughly in the shape of a pistol with an elongated barrel. Mounted on the butt was a clothespin "trigger." The innertube strip was stretched—tightly—from nose to butt of the gun and held in place by the clothespin until the firer too aim and let fly.

The shots stung, too.

Automatic weapons were fashioned by the more creative kids. Some had a series of notches and the shooter got multiple fire power by flipping the rubber strips off in rapid succession.

Some were really fancy—with a notched wheel to hold the bands in place. A crank of the wheel and you had a rubber gun machine gun. One such weapon could turn the tide in a rubber gun war with the guys from across the street.

For a time after World War II the rubber gun became a commercial toy. But it wasn't the same somehow and the trend to realism—sixshooters that fire "real bullets" and so on—put the rubber gun out of business.

Or maybe it just seemed so. The Little Rock boy whose father (an old rubber gun fighter) made him a genuine homemade rubber gun has as much fun with it as with his authentic imitation guns. And he'd only had his rubber gun a day when his playmate popped up with one.

The first time the two of them turn on the kids down the street with their rubber guns, there'll be some more of them show up, too.

An unidentified man was driving his badly battered Volkswagen near the courthouse when he observed a bystander surveying the dented front end of his car.

The driver slowed the car and called: "Boy, you oughta see the other one."

Four year old Debbie Holland of near Jonesboro is a quick thinker. And she owes her life to that at tribute.

When her clothing was ignited accidentally the other day, Debbie immediately dropped to the ground and rolled until the flames were out, her father said. She was taken to a hospital for treatment for burns.

Mrs. Alvin Reynolds is tired of hanging out her laundry. Not that hanging it out, though bothersome enough, is the real problem. It's getting it in that's troubling her.

Twice this summer she's left the washing on the line to find it gone the next morning. The thefts occurred exactly one month apart.

50 Negroes Apply at Memphis School

MEMPHIS (AP)—Fifty Negro applications for admission to all-white public schools have been rejected in order to force hearings in each case.

The Memphis Board of Education said Tuesday that such hearings would give "proper consideration to the qualifications of the particular student."

The board has appointed two special officers to preside at the appeals. If finally rejected by the board, the case can only be appealed to a court.

School assignments in Tennessee are handled under the state pupil assignment law, which sets up numerous and complex criteria for determining which school a child must attend. Race is not mentioned.

Says Witness Challenges Government

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., today accused Fifth Amendment pleading witnesses in the Senate rackets hearings of "challenging your government" and taunting it.

McClellan, presiding at the hearings, rapped out this protest after Louis Effkman, editor and publisher of the Louisville (Ky.) Daily Sports News, a racing sports sheet, and Robert C. Cullen of Cincinnati, Ohio, an alleged race wire figure, invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to answer questions.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., spoke of possible contempt of Congress proceedings. He said the courts should test whether a witness may make "frivolous or capricious" use of the Fifth Amendment.

Effkman refused to answer when asked whether he is the "$110 a week editor-publisher" of the Daily Sports, and whether he is involved in a race wire service as a front for Thomas Kelly Sr., in the Chicago race wire business.

The Daily Sports itself lists him as its editor-publisher, and the senators questioned Effkman's right to refuse to tell whether this was true.

Kelly Tuesday invoked the Fifth Amendment on all questions about his own operations as head of the Illinois Sport Service and whether his firm is the sole owner of Effkman's operation.

Effkman likewise refused to answer when asked whether his firm is "just a buffer" who collects money from subscribers to the service and forwards it to Kelly.

Cullen, the alleged Cincinnati race wire figure, similarly refused to answer questions about his occupation.

McClellan barked then that the "Fifth Amendment artists" before him were "challenging your government."

"Maybe you folks are bigger than your government," he said. "I rather doubt it."

He accused Effkman of taunting the subcommittee by saying he "refused" to answer questions instead of saying "I respectfully decline to answer."

Effkman promptly adopted the language McClellan said would be more respectful.

During Wednesday's hearings, Harry Gorman, who described himself as a retired Indianapolis race wire operator, testified he had received anonymous telephoned threats of death if he gave information to the subcommittee.

From a police officer, there was testimony that Frank W. Lyons, a Chicago race wire employee, tried to commit suicide Saturday because of threats from associates.

The senators decline to say whether they have asked the FBI for help in the situation.

Highlights in History for Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history: On this day in 1925, Commander John Rodgers and a crew of five left San Francisco's Golden Gate for Hawaii in a Navy seaplane. They were forced to land in the Pacific 400 miles short of their destination, but they managed to sail their plane like a boat until sighted nine days later by a submarine 1½ miles off Hawaii.

On this date—

In 1654, the Rhode Island General Assembly forbade the sale of liquor to Indians and prohibited the French and Dutch from trading with them.

In 1801, the Lewis and Clark expedition began the descent of the Ohio River from Pittsburgh.

In 1898, Col. Henry of the French Army committed suicide after confessing that he forged a letter to obtain the conviction of Capt. Alfred Dreyfus for treason.

In 1934, the United States relinquished control of Haiti.

In 1954, 68 persons were killed and a half billion dollars in damage resulted when a hurricane lashed Long Island and New England.

Ten years ago . . . in its final report, the U.S. Senate Crime Investigating Committee cited the extent of crime in medium-size cities and termed the spread of narcotics a "great evil."

Five years ago . . . President Eisenhower declared that the United States was committed only to a peaceful settlement of the Suez Canal dispute.

One year ago . . . Congolese Premier Lumumba was warned by 13 African states that abusive acts against United Nations aides must be halted.

Turkey, Ham Featured for Labor Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two long-time holiday favorites, turkey and smoked ham, are offered by many supermarkets this week, enabling housewives to take some of the labor out of Labor Day weekend.

Both readily adopt to multi-meal treatment—for the family one day and guests the next, for family or guests both days or whatever the case may be.

Pre-cooked chicken, an item which removes practically all of the labor out of cooking, is featured in some Eastern chains.

Some stores, obviously with picnics in mind, offer such items as luncheon meat, frankfurters and sliced boiled ham at reduced prices. Offerings of rib roast, steak and lamb are pretty well scattered.

Best buys among vegetables to go with whatever meat is selected run to such items as carrot, corn, cucumbers, eggplant, endive, escarole, Eastern yellow onion, peppers, potatoes, tomatoes and watercress. Celery and potatoes are outstanding buys, too, in areas where they're available from nearby fields.

Others in the good buy class include beans, broccoli, cauliflower, green onions, radishes, lettuce, okra, parsnips, spinach, squash and sweet potatoes.

Outstanding fruit buys are cantaloupes, limes, Thompson seedless grapes, lemons, watermelons and honeydew melons.

You can get good buys, too, among apples, blueberries, peaches, pears, plums, prunes, nectarines and California oranges.

Reuther Is Handling Bargaining

DETROIT (AP)—Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union, personally took over the bargaining with General Motors Corp. today and expressed hope that a settlement could be reached under the new one-week extension of the Aug. 31 deadline.

But Reuther declared GM "will have to part with some of its money-bags" before there would be a 1961 settlement.

GM's chief negotiator, Vice President Louis G. Seaton, also returned to the bargaining table and said the important thing was to have a settlement "that is responsible to the employees, shareholders and public."

Seaton said he did not consider the Federal Mediation Service's move to have the union and the auto companies extend the deadline for another week as "government intervention. He said "the time at hand was not sufficient to do the job."

Ford Motor Co. also resumed talks with the UAW today. Malcolm Deniso, Ford vice president, industrial relations, told newsmen Ford had no plans to make a new offer to the UAW.

Spa Workers to Vote on Union

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—

Date for collective bargaining election for the National Receptors plant here will be set after the company has had time to petition for a review. A National Labor Relations Board spokesman at Memphis said Tuesday an election had been ordered at the plant, which has about 300 employees. The U.S. Steel Workers Union seeks to represent the workers.

Wynne Employees Favor Union

WYNNE, Ark. (AP)—Employees of Rainfair Inc., garment factory here voted 65 to 45 in favor of representation by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union Tuesday.

The election was supervised by the National Labor Relations Board. Employees voted against union representation in elections held each year between 1955 and 1959.

Automatic Shaver

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese firm is marketing what it calls "the world's first automatic shaving device"—an electric razor that turns for five minutes when a 10-yen (2.8 cents) piece is dropped in the slot.

The company, Shinano Brothers, says the device, complete with sanitizing attachment, is designed for offices, factories, hotels, waiting rooms and public baths to meet the "current trend of the instant mood."

Actress Buried

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Gail Russell, 36, was buried Tuesday after private funeral services attended by several film stars, other friends and her family.

Miss Russell was found dead Sunday in a liquor bottle-strewn room of her West Los Angeles home.

"You know as I know that Gail Russell had a problem," said Dr. Leo C. Kline, Methodist pastor, who conducted the services.
